

Celebrating SCFD Impact. Celebrating Labor Day.

If you celebrated Labor Day with a few moments of contemplation about its origin as a way to recognize the contributions of workers across our nation, then consider this as well. The workers of our arts, culture and scientific community not only contribute to our sense of wonder, but they also make real and meaningful contributions to our local and regional economy. The more than 300 organizations funded by SCFD employ thousands and provide millions in economic impact.

SCFD has come a long way in its more than 30 years of existence. Colorado voters established the district more than three decades ago. Today, the district provides millions to all the wonder you love.

New organizations join the SCFD each year

Every year, organizations who are not currently part of the SCFD can apply to be eligible to receive funding. This process is the first step organizations take to become part of the SCFD funding family. Since voters conceived of the SCFD 30 years ago, the number of organizations supported by the district has grown to more than 300. You can learn more about the process

SCFD Board of Directors news

The SCFD is governed by a board of directors with representation from district member counties Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Denver, Douglas, and Jefferson. The board oversees district funding and ensures the district is running the way voters intended. The board meets eight times a year and all meetings are open to the public.

- The next meeting of the SCFD Board of Directors will be held virtually at 1 p.m. on Sept. 22. Get information for joining meetings and see the full calendar of 2022 board meetings.
