

“A Glimpse into A Kaleidoscope of Color” Video Description

The video on the previous page is a preview of the 2022 Annual Report, featuring a compilation of clips from SCFD’s funded organizations in 2022.

0:00: SCFD’s Annual Report cover spins around in a kaleidoscopic design.

0:02: Indigenous dancers compete at Tesoro Cultural Center.

0:04: An actor speaks in a production of Mizel Arts and Culture’s The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane.

0:05: Young actors move across the stage in a Performing Arts Academy production.

0:07: A man rides his bike along a painted sidewalk in Adams County.

0:08: Colorado Friends of Old Time Music and Dance participants dance together.

0:11: Two kids play with a laser light design on the floor for Space Night and a father shows his son an exhibit at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science.

0:13: The Boulder Chamber Orchestra performs on stage.

0:15: A group of children learn a dance at Colorado Chautauqua and explore the grounds.

0:17: A Colorado Conservatory of Dance performer dances on stage in front of a black and white photo of seven Black men.

0:21: Performers in colorful costumes and masks spin at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science.

0:24: A Denver Zoo employee educates a group of children about the possum on the table in front of her.

0:25: Members of the Cherry Creek Chorale sing and clap their hands on stage.

0:27: A woman grabs a moss specimen with tweezers alongside a group of others in a field for the Ocean First Institute.

0:29: A young boy and girl dance together.

0:31: The Colorado Children's Chorale lifts their arms and sings in front of an elderly audience.

0:32: A paintbrush is pressed to a colorful canvas.

0:33: A group of dancers in black pose together on chairs.

0:36: Baroque Chamber Orchestra members play their instruments on stage.

0:37: Two young girls in a Think 360 Arts for Learning program paint a canvas together.

0:39: The Colorado Korean Chorus sings together on stage.

0:40: Two musicians play in front of a glowing e-Town sign.

0:41: Cantabile sings together on stage.

0:42: Young dancers from the Colorado Conservatory of Dance skip across a stage with a Mayan temple in the background.

0:43: A young child pets a dinosaur skeleton puppet.

0:45: A female conductor signals to the Colorado Hebrew Chorale.

0:46: A male singer in a white suit performs with the Colorado Jazz Repertory Orchestra.

0:47: Members of Colorado MahlerFest play their instruments.

0:48: A performer from the Philippine American Society of Colorado spins across a dance floor in an intricate costume.

0:50: A mother and infant point to a painting at the Clyfford Still Museum.

0:51: An audience applauds at the Arvada Center.

0:52: The 2022 Annual Report cover appears on the screen: "A Kaleidoscope of Culture".

0:54: A QR code appears that leads to the Annual Report on SCFD's website.

0:56: Clips Courtesy of:

- Amy Smith, Adams County Arts and Culture Commission
- Arvada Center
- Bahman Saless, Boulder Chamber Orchestra

- Brianna Suazo, Colorado Chautauqua
- Caroline Fuller, Colorado Friends of Old Time Music and Dance
- Clyfford Still Museum
- Colorado Children's Chorale
- Daisy McGowan, Think360 Arts for Learning
- Denver Museum of Nature & Science
- Devon Forster,
- eTown
- Ethan Hecht, Colorado MahlerFest
- Hari Baumbach, Cantabile
- Holly Arnold Kinney, Tesoro Cultural Center
- Jameson Courville, Colorado Conservatory of Dance
- Kerith Beaumont, Performing Arts Academy
- Kevin Jeff, Davis Contemporary Dance Company
- Mike Freeland, Cherry Creek Chorale
- Mikki McComb-Kobza, Ocean First Institute
- Miles Guardiano, Philipine American Society of Colorado
- Ray Bailey, Mizel Arts and Culture
- Ruth Keusch, Colorado Hebrew Chorale
- Susan Andre, Baroque Chamber Orchestra
- Tad Kim, Colorado Korean Chorus