SCFD

WHAT WE DO

SCFD is the Scientific and Cultural Facilities District, a tax collected and distributed to 300 cultural organizations in our seven-county Denver metro region including Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Denver, Douglas, and Jefferson counties. Just one penny on every $10 spent in the district creates vibrancy for us individually and collectively, supporting wonder wherever we go. It gives our kids a unique perspective and understanding of the world. It inspires all of us to discover the radical and the beautiful, and stretches our capacity to be transformed. Our metro area would not be the vibrant, nationally ranked metropolis that it is today without the cultural funding and economic impact created by SCFD. Residents understand this and have approved continuing the tax at each of three renewal elections. With more than $87 million granted in 2025, our community is enriched by an amazing tapestry of arts, culture, and science that is available and accessible to everyone. Beginning with taxpayers and with the expert shepherding of the SCFD, our collective mission is simple: We fund culture.

Message from the Executive Director and the Board Chair

Thank you for taking time to review SCFD's 2025 annual report, New Horizons! In 2025, our more-than 300 grantees expanded cultural experiences for audiences old and new and built fresh paths towards access, connection, and wonder for district residents. Their commitment to innovation, collaboration, and community led to hundreds of free arts, culture, and science experiences and an array of programming for people of all ages and interests. Who knows how many of these touchpoints will lead to inspiring the next generation of musicians, artists, scientists, dancers, or actors! These organizations' efforts to engage our region through exhibitions, performances, classes, and more are a testament to the beauty and connection that can come from funding culture together.

SCFD's Executive Director leadership shifted last year with the retirement of Deborah Jordy. Under Deborah's nine-year tenure, the district distributed more than $80 million in grants annually, ensured consistent funding for nonprofits during the COVID-19 pandemic, and experienced successes such as a colorful rebrand, the implementation of an organizational cultural equity statement, and the creation of a universal scoring rubric for County Cultural Councils, to name a few. We are so grateful for her dedication to the district, service to its residents, and belief in our vision of Culture For All.

Andrea Albo was appointed as our new Executive Director in September, bringing over 27 years of experience in public service with focuses on strengthening systems, reforming policy, and improving community experience. Under Andrea's leadership, SCFD also broke new ground in 2025, building and implementing a framework for our 2028 Road to Reauthorization. As the district looks towards hopeful reauthorization in 2028, the SCFD staff and board put together a five-phase process for gathering feedback and building consensus on the best model to take the SCFD into its next era. The board approved this framework and after a thorough selection process last fall, SCFD partnered with a local firm, GBSM, to bring this process to life as a multi-year project that will lead the district into 2028.

As SCFD and its grantees continue to innovate and grow, one thing has never changed over nearly 40 years: our commitment to culture for all. It's thanks to the ongoing support of district residents that SCFD can fund arts, culture, and science nonprofits in seven counties. With just a penny collected on every $10 purchase in the district, in 2025 we were able to provide $87 million in grants to organizations big and small. Those pennies added up to plentiful cultural opportunities for the public and more than $3 billion in economic impact for the region. Created by district residents for district residents, it truly is our cultural community that allows us to bridge new horizons.

With gratitude,

Andrea Albo, SCFD Executive Director and Jacki Cooper Melmed, SCFD Board Chair

Grantee Spotlights

SCFD's funded partners provided a myriad of horizon-broadening cultural experiences for residents across the seven-county district last year. Here's a look back at just a sample of the arts, culture, and science available to all in 2025.

Town of Bennett's First-Ever Commissioned Public Sculpture

The Town of Bennett's Arts Council commissioned its first public sculpture in 2025! The Town of Bennett and Adams County worked with local artist, James Peterson, to commission "Breeze". This kinetic sculpture is centered around wind, a major part of life on the plains of Bennett. The piece changes with each interaction, influenced by the light and weather around Bennett's Town Hall. The sculpture was unveiled at a meet-the-artist event on July 24, 2025.

Denver Museum of Nature & Science's New Snapping Turtle Fossil Discovery

In August 2025, scientists at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science published their findings on a new fossil discovery found at the Corral Bluffs field site, a snapping turtle species named “Tavachelydra stevensoni.” A very rare fossil specimen for paleontologists to uncover, this discovery was confirmed as the world’s oldest known snapping turtle. This fossil helps us piece together Colorado’s deep past and adds to the incredible discoveries coming out of the region by the Museum’s paleontology team. “For me, it’s about doing more fieldwork and finding more fossils, because we’ve just scratched the surface,” said Dr. Tyler Lyson, Senior Curator of Vertebrate Paleontology.

Symphony of the Rockies' Children's Discovery Concert

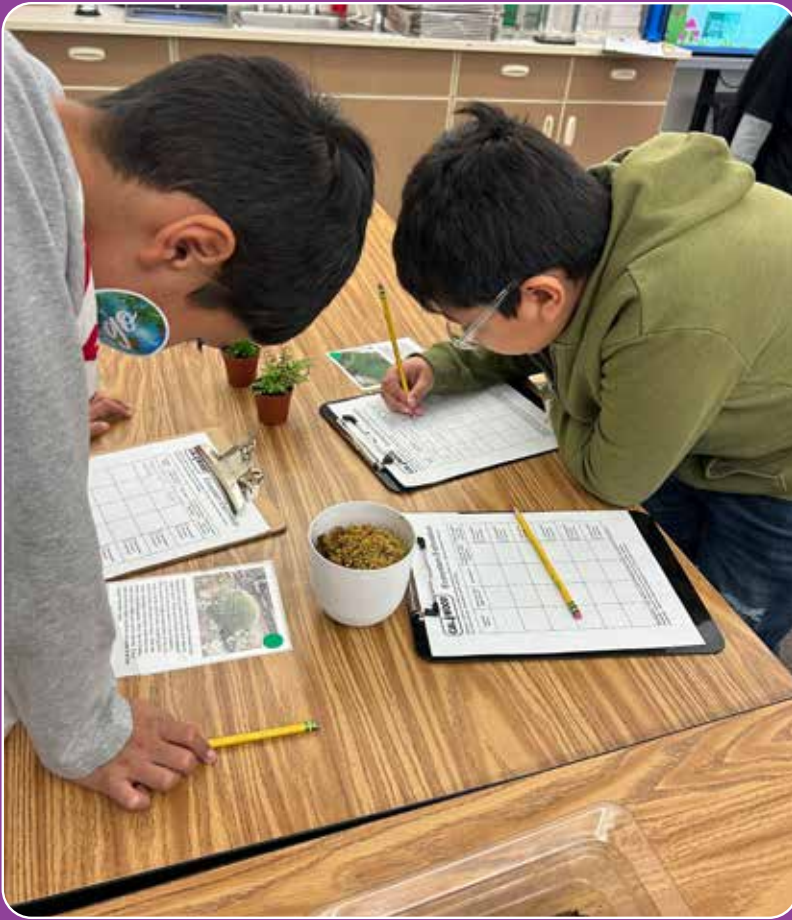

Right between Halloween and the holidays, Symphony of the Rockies presented “The Creative Spirit: Children’s Discovery Concert,” an interactive concert experience designed specifically for kids. This musical adventure took shape as a ghost story where a phantom composer returns on Día de los Muertos to finish his final masterpiece alongside a live orchestra and an audience full of young creative minds. This original production included live classical music, rhythm games, and audience collaboration to explore the joy of working together to create something harmonious. More than 200 students from Arapahoe, Denver, and Douglas County schools attended this inspiring concert.

Colorado Railroad Museum's “Traqueros” Exhibition

In October 2025, the Colorado Railroad Museum opened its first bilingual exhibit, “Traqueros: Mexican Trackworkers and the American Railroad”. Through photos, artifacts, and personal stories, the exhibit shared the contributions of Mexican and Mexican American laborers who built and maintained railroads across the country. Traqueros accounted for 2/3 of railroad labor across the southwest, and this exhibit demonstrated the hardships of work on the railroads as well as the strength of the communities these laborers built along the way. One attendee shared, “I’m so glad I found this exhibit. I didn’t realize it was here. This is my family’s history.”

Cal-Wood Education Center's “Cal-Wood On the Go” programming

Cal-Wood Education Center reached new audiences with their “Cal-Wood on the Go” program, bringing the great outdoors into classrooms around the district. Designed to inspire curiosity and appreciation for the natural world, these engaging sessions invite students to delve into nature without leaving the classroom. Through creative hands-on experiences, students explore the amazing world of animal adaptations, the intricate food webs of Colorado’s ecosystems, energy flows, and how tree rings can uncover clues about climate change. More than 1,200 students were visited by expert field instructors, providing unique environmental educational opportunities to those who would not otherwise experience them.

Parker Area Historical Society's Indigenous History of Music program

The Parker Area Historical Society presented an afternoon of storytelling and music with “Indigenous History of Music with Leon Littlebird” in August 2025. With multi-generation ancestral roots in both Pioneer and Native American cultures, Leon Joseph Littlebird wove together stories about the lives and talents of the earliest inhabitants of Colorado and music using many types of ancient instruments. The performance took place at the historic Schoolhouse Theater in Parker, taking audiences on a journey detailing how music came to be an integral part of life in the tribes from mountains to plains and the Southwest.

Colorado Repertory Singers’ “Look & Listen Program” with Denver Art Museum

The Colorado Repertory Singers Chamber Choir partnered with the Denver Art Museum, The Manning School, and Rock Canyon High School to create and perform a collaborative “Look and Listen” program. Student singers were empowered to choose artworks to pair with choral repertoire, illustrating the connection between art and music. Throughout the performance in the Sturm Grand Pavilion, these art pieces were projected behind the choir, educating audiences about each work along with the selected music pairing. One middle school student shared, “participating in this collaboration impacted my journey as a musician by causing me to realize just how similar every single person on this planet is...”
